My dear Mr. Wood;-

I have probably between 25 and 50 Byzantine bronze coins, that I would like to have attributed, and will feel greatly obliged if you place them for me, I believe the Society owns Sabatier. I desire to pay you for your services and will be pleased to learn if you can now come to my aid.

Most truly yours,

Lyman H. Low.

The medallion of Napoleon from Ella Peshine Low was brought to this country by a soldier of Napoleon about 1825. He flourished as a prominent druggist in lower Broadway in the thirties, I should say between 1832 and 45. His name was distinctly a French one, which I do not now recall, but it may be easily ascertained through the New York directories. He was also known as the "fire king". A son of his was a physician in Jersey City, and died about ten years ago.
